ACHIEVEMENT

THE end of each year finds the spotlight focused upon a number of students who have in some way distinguished themselves and merited honorable mention or awards throughout the course of the school year. Perhaps their high standard of scholastic work raised them to be honored "upper tenth" of the graduating class, or perhaps a class office had been intrusted to the student. Many other possibilities in various branches had been made the most of and the student who had striven in a particular line finds a ready position awaiting him in the coveted honor section of the annual.

Awards and honors are bestowed in numerous branches of the high school course; and among these are publication awards, debate, extemporaneous speaking contest, constitution oration contest, W. C. T. U. essay contest, senior play cast, athletic honors, military honors, and numerous others.

The awarding of honors is undoubtedly an inspiration and a spur to the student working to achieve recognition for a year of diligent and constant applications of talents to a chosen line of work. With a reward in view, he is encouraged to accomplish, and to merit obsequent laurels crowning his triumphs. There are unlimited opportunities wherein each student in high school might win recognition if he so desired and was willing to apply time and dormant ability to the tasks set before him. The will to score highly would soon place the student in the now traditional honor section, or the high school "Hall of Fame," as it might well be called.

The deserving "upper tenth" of the graduating class consists of those students who have labored to appear as the "cream of the class" by creating enviable scholastic records for themselves. It is this portion on which the spotlight glares the brightest, for greater things are expected, and most of them realized, of this outstanding group. They have aimed high and reached their mark. They will enter their chosen worlds and rise, for they have learned that endeavor is inevitably rewarded; in the high school the reward is honor, but in the business world a more material award awaits them.

Leadership, the characteristic which causes one to be the leader instead of the follower, is developed early. To be selected by popular vote as the leader of one's class is a certain sign that chosen individual has made himself ideal in the eyes of his fellow students. They admire him for his qualities of diplomacy, tact, and an ability to make himself pleasantly but importantly, prominent. Desirable traits are quickly noted and distinguished one to the degree of popularity, or general appeal. Thus a leader is selected, but he must strive greatly to attain this fame.

Military honors are awarded for excellence in company leadership and the ability to forge up through to private ranks to captaincies and major, appointments. The rifle team is another branch of military in which there is ample opportunity to excel.

Publication awards are always in evidence, for these are offered to both the staff of this high school weekly and the staff of the annual year book. The staff of the Student "W" World is perhaps one of the most active groups in the high school, for it is their duty to bring important news to the ever increasing number of subscribers. No less deserving honor is the staff of the annual year book which labors throughout the year to compile all the phases of school life in order that the graduating class might take a memory with them on graduation.

In her musical fingers are locked all the secrets of the old masters.

HARRIET B. CARLSON
"Hetts"

Soccer 1; May Festival; French 3; History 4; Camera 2; Girl Rooters 1.

Someday we will come across Harriet in an imposing office—no less than private secretary to John D's great grandson.

EDWARD GEORGE CARNEY
"Ed"

Tennis 3; Baseball 4; Track 2; Latin 1; Dramatics 4; History 4; Junior Chemists 4; Hi-Y 3, 4; Chess 2, 3; Math Club 3; Band 1, 2, 3.

So Ed wants to be a star baseball player! And right along we expected him to be a senator.

EDWIN BUFFUM
"Eddie"

Football 2, 3; "In Walked Jimmy;" Camera 2, 3.

Just the kind of a chap you expect for an excellent executive. We like Eddie's bow ties.

FRANK BURE
"Shorty"

A wizard at history and though he would like to be an accountant, the stars predict that he will be a great historian.

SAMUEL GEORGE BURGESS
"Hey Burgess"

"In Walked Jimmy;" Dramatics 4; Camera 1; Jr. Chemists 4; Hi-Y 2, 3, 4; Pres. 4; Chess Club 2, 3, 4; Pres. 4; Math Club 4; Military 2, 3, 4.

We sort of suspect that Sam is the author of the "Burgess Bedtime Stories" but is keeping it from us. He's so modest.

WALTER J. BURKE
"Wally"

Track 1; Camera 1, 2, 3; Student "W" World 4; Annual Staff 3, 4.

In every sense of the word—a gentleman, and a good sport, also an excellent sports writer.

MARLIN BUZZARD
"Buzzard"

Swimming 3, 4; "In Walked Jimmy;" Dramatics 4; Hi-Y 4; Orchestra 2, 3; Military 2, 3, 4; Senior Play.

Oh, how well he wears his stars and stripes. Some day he'll build booful bridges in Africa.

a log cabin far from civilization,
she will draw the covers for Cosmopolitan.

THERESA M. CORRIGAN
"Mickey"

Swimming 3, 4; Track 1; Spanish 2; History 4; Camera 3; Chorus 3; Vaward 2, 3.

She's as sweet as a rose and as quiet as she can be—what is she always thinking about?

GERTRUDE MARIE COTE
"Froggie"

Basketball 1, 2; Swimming 1, 2, 3; Soccer 1; G. A. A. 1, 2; Chorus 1, 2, 3.

She's not really stuck up,
it's just her adorable tip-tilted nose that gives her that appearance.

SENIORS

ESTHER D. COXE
"Dee"

JOHN MATHEW SONN
"Kayo"

Military 2, 3, 4.

Johnny is going to West Point, and my! but he'll look handsome in his uniform.

LEE O. STANLEY

Military 2, 3, 4.

Too bad they don't make electrical Fords. Lee likes to work on Fords but his ambition is to be an electrician.

CARL A. STARK
"Scuge"

Football 1, 2, 3, 4; Basketball 1, 2, 3, 4; Baseball 4.

Carl likes to hunt big game like — uh — millionaires's daughters, lions, bears, etc.

GRACE LOUISE STEVENS
"Gracie"

Basketball 1, 2; Swimming 1, 2, 3; Soccer 1, 2; Track 1; "Gypsy Rover"; History 1, 2; G. A. A. 3, 4; Glee Club 2; Chorus 1.

While training in a New York hospital, Grace will fall in love with the head surgeon — and of course she'll have to give up her career — yes sir.

LEE FRANK STEWART
"Bud"

Band 2, 3, 4.

Lee's architectural plan will win a prize which will enable him to go abroad to study further.

SIDNEY FRANCIS
STODOLA
"Sid"

Band 1, 2, 3, 4; Orchestra 1, 2.

Sidney would be a 'cello player, but as it's so beastly hard to carry the thing that he's decided to be a concert violinist.

MELVIN JOHN STRANG

Swimming.

Looks like Melvin is destined to hold up the drug store corner while ambition comes, for his ambition is to have ambition.

SENIORS

DUANE STUART
"Doc"

Band 2, 3, 4; Orchestra 4.
Duane means to be a millionaire with a glorified tennis court. First the million, then the tennis court.

MARJORIE BERNICE
STUPEY
"Pat"

Manager of a long string of theatres.

GEORGE EDWARD
THORNTON
"Eddie"

Ed's ambition is to saw off limbs and administer pills and powders.

FRANK JAMES TOBIN
"Frankie"

Whenever an amusement palace has difficulty with its lighting system, they'll call on Frank to solve the problem.

GWENDOLYN S. TORDOFF
"Short Stop"

When Gwen becomes a kindergarten teacher, just think how her pupils will enjoy hearing her play her uke instead of giving lessons.

SENIORS

EARL THEODORE
TURNER
"Teddy"

Track 1; Band 1, 2, 3, 4;
Pres. Band 4; Orchestra 1;
Football 2, 3.

It will be a great surprise,
his book of modern poetry,
as his talent in that line was guarded by secrecy, or was it modesty?

CHESTER HOWARD
TWENTYMAN
"Chet"

Spanish 3.

We'll hear of Chester in due time as the "hole-in-one-king" of American golfers.

MARY B. TWYMAN
"Birdie"

French 3; History 4; Chorus 1, 2, 3.

W. T. H. S. will become famous for its many excellent
pedagogues, among them,
Birdie.

ERNA URBAN "Bub"

Basketball 1; Soccer 1; History 4; Vaward 2, 3.

Once Erna wore curls, and how they did become her!
That was in the dim dark days that will live in memory
forever—Freshman days.

LILLIAN VAN DEUSEN
"BEE"

Swimming; Track; "Quality Street"; Spanish 3; Junior Chemists 3; Girl Roster
2; Vaward 2, 3.

"Bee" is so fond of children that she insures having them in her presence always by deciding to be a kinder-garden teacher.

WARREN C. VAN MALE
"Van"

Latin 1, 2, 3; Pres. 3; Military 2, 3, 4.

No wonder Warren wants to be an army officer—women are always intrigued by a uniform.

CLARA VAN PARYS
"Clare"

Basketball 1, 2; Swimming
4; Soccer 1; History 4.

She drifts about serenely with an eternal smile on her lips carefree and content.

ELEANOR GLADYS
VLACK
"Little One"

Swimming 2, 3; "Belle of Barcelona"; "Carrie Comes to College"; Latin 1; French
3; Dramatics 4; History 2, 4;
Glee Club 1, 3, 4; Chorus 2;
Vaward 3.

What is there about Eleanor that attracts one so. Of course she's as pretty as a picture, but there are other undefinable qualities.

ALEX HENRY
WASNIEWSKI
"Axl"

Football 1, 2; Basketball 1;
Tennis 1, 4; Baseball 1;
Track 1; Latin 1.

He is made of that stuff
of which heroes and statesmen are fashioned.

ANNE CATHERINE
WEBER
"Baby-face"

Swimming 1, 2, 3; Latin 2,
1; History 4; Camera 4

Anna will draw caricatures
of famous men for a Wall Street periodical.

SENIORS

DONALD WELLS

"Red"

He wants to be a drummer. And so he will—and a sensation at that. His able manipulation of a drum with 199 attachments astound one.

VERNIE E. WERHO

"YI, Ya"

Intramural Basketball 1, 2, 3; Track 4; Military 2, 3.

A suspicious looking finger print on the cookie jar. Quick! Call Vernie, of Scotland Yard, to solve the mysterious disappearance.

AMY MAE WHITE

"Kid"

Swimming 1, 2, 3, 4; Soccer 2; Track 1, 2; History 4; Camera 3; G. A. A. 3, 4; Chorus 4.

An accordion with jewelled keys will sparkle in the spotlights, as Amy takes her bow on the Orpheum circuit.

RUSSEL J. WHYTE

"Russ"

Basketball 1; Tennis 3, 4; Baseball 1; Track 2; "In Walked Jimmy"; Latin 1; French 2; Dramatics 3, 4; Junior Chemists 4; Hi-Y 2, 3, 4; Vice-Pres. 4; Chess 2, 3, 4; Math. 3; Band 1, 2, 3; Military 2, 3, 4; Lt. Colonel 4; Senior Play.

"Russ" is aiming to frequent the clouds, but the stars predict that he'll be on terra firma, to wit: real estate.

BRUCE WIGHT

"Scotty"

Entered from Racine, Wis.

Bruce is modern in his ambitions and is keeping active pace with times by planning to become an aero engineer. But what a political economist the world is losing!

MARSHALL B. WILMOT

"Mar"

Senior Musicians 4; Hi-Y 2, 3, 4; Chess 3; Annual Staff 4; Band 1, 2, 3, 4; Pres. 1; Military 3, 4.

Marshall's ambition is "anything." Had it been "nothing," we'd have left it at that, but "anything" includes everything, so that makes him "jack of all trades," so to speak.

VERNA MILDRED WORTH

"Nernie"

Here lurks true and unaffected modesty so rare and pleasant to the pleased discoverer.

BENNETTT WYLLIE

"Benny"

Football 1; Lights 3; Basketball 1; Lights 2; Latin 1; History 2; Hi-Y 2, 3; Band 1, 2, 3.

An understudy for Gil Lindgren, famous blackface minstrel. Bennett will jerk sodas on the side.

ELISE KATHRYN

YAEGAR

"Weise"

Swimming 1, 2; Soccer 1; History 4; Girl Rooters 1.

It won't be long before Elise will take her place at the head of the line of America's Champion Speed Typists.

HELEN CECELIA
ZABORSKI

Basketball 1; Swimming 1, 2; Tennis 3; "Carrie Comes to College"; Latin 1, 2; French 3; Chorus 4.

The call of the acts will sound for Helen, who will display her talents in the most modern fashion by applications to present day commercial art.

ANNUAL STAFF

The 1930 Annual Staff submits for your approval this year's "W" and we sincerely hope it meets with the approbation of the teachers and students of W. T. H. S.

The many hours we have labored, will be looked upon as pleasant ones if this "W" helps you to recall memories of the days spent at old Waukegan High.

We also wish to take this opportunity to give a note of appreciation for the help given the staff by the teachers and the students.

ART WORKERS

The art department under the supervision of Miss Frances Higley has done much towards making the 1930 Annual "W" attractive. All of the designing and illustrating of the annual is original work done by the students. For example the cover design furnished a problem in tooled leather. Several designs were submitted, the one done by Bernice Bacon being selected. The design for the page headings was made by Esther Lindross assisted by Aili Louko. Veikko Matson, William Phillips and Kenneth Plummer designed the background panels for the photographs. The lining of the cover and the Ex Libris were planned by Emma Anslyn. Esther Rasmusen, Betty Ross, Edna Chapman, Bernice Bacon, Veikko Matson, Seymore Schiff, Arthur Dunklin, Helen Lassila, and Julia Yoeman designed and carved the block prints which were used. Without the aid of this department our Annual would lack its artistic finish and we are very appreciative of what they have done for us.

OUR ANNUAL IN THE MAKING

It is safe to say that not over 5 per cent of the students in our school know just how our annual is published and printed, therefore we shall sketch for you, however briefly, what takes place from the time the ad copies come to the printers until the book becomes a finished product.

First, let us say that there are many, many things that would seem trivial to the casual observer which are in reality of utmost importance to the workers in the print shop. The thickness of the spaces between words, the difference of a thousandth of an inch in the paper taking print, and the temperature of the press room, and the humidity of the air are but a few of the factors determining whether the book will be a success or a failure.

Human accuracy in a work of this sort is of greater value than mechanical speed. When a mere pin scratch will permanently mar a ten dollar cut, acting without thinking is like shooting without aiming.

All the advertising matter is hand set by the printing students, as soon as the copy is received. Each line must be set exactly the right length, in order to work right with the lines that are set correctly. All type other than the ads is set by linotype.

Eight pages are locked in a chase at one time and printed upon a large sheet of paper. Extreme care must be taken that the pages are in the correct places, otherwise they would not fold right when it comes to put the book together.

Eight different pages are printed on the reverse side of the sheet, making what is called a signature of sixteen pages. While all this is being done on the cylinder press, the small platen presses are kept busy printing the multi-colored insert sheets depicting the contents of the various signatures.

The covers are made in the print shop bindery. The design is then embossed on the front of the cover. Next the various colors are put on the embossed covers. They are now ready to be placed on the books which have been previously fastened together by means of a wire stitcher.

The books are then backed. Paper is put on and covers glued into place. A press is then called into play. In this the books remain until dry after which they are ready for delivery.

STUDENT "W" WORLD

During the term 1929-1930 the staff of the Student "W" World has put their especial effort into the work of putting out an as interesting and as up-to-the-minute newspaper each week as possible. All the news of various clubs, sports, social gatherings, military, plays, dances, and every department of the school was covered. Several very interesting new columns were also introduced.

Through the efforts of Walter Burke, sports editor, a special tournament edition of the paper was published after every session of the tournament. The staff sponsored a dance after the final game on Saturday, March 8, 1930.

At the annual Illinois State High School Press Association convention at Urbana, the paper again received distinguished ratings. The convention was attended by the editor and associate editor of the annual and by the editor and associate editor of the Student "W" World.

THE SENIOR PLAY

"Lucky Break," a modern farce-comedy in three acts, was given by the Senior class of 1930, May 16th and 17th.

This play was interesting in that there were no outstanding leads, as the action of the play was such that each character had an equal chance in lines and characterization.

The story pictures a hotel in the small town of Matasquam, Connecticut, all astir because one of its former citizens, John Bruce, who has become a financial power in Wall Street, is returning. Martha Mullet, proprietress of the hotel and her daughter, Nora, have been busy getting the hotel in order for the honored guest. Even Abner Ketcham, the town dignitary and his nephew, Benny Ketcham, a good-natured, likeable fellow but somewhat of a sap are interested in Bruce's coming.

The main interest is between John Bruce and Nora. The sub-plot is between Claudia, daughter of Mrs. Barrett, a social climber, and Tommy Lansing, an ambitious young artist, who is determined to marry Claudia in spite of her mother's hopes for someone higher.

Other guests at the hotel are Charles Martin, business manager for John Bruce; Var and Jura Charente, French brother and sister who teach dancing and who even prevail upon the soulful sisters; Alphecca and Alchiba, two romantic old maids, to take outdoor dancing; Bella McWatt, masculine and uncultured, who moves in better circles of society only because she is able to pay her way there; the servants of John Bruce, Tokio, Jap valet and Watkins, the chauffeur; Spivins, the town expressman. There are also numerous boarders and dancers who arrive at the hotel during the action of the play.

"Lucky Break" was a clever play, well acted by a well chosen cast.

EXTEMPORANEOUS SPEAKING CONTEST

Closely associated with debating is the Extemporaneous Speaking Contest in which a large number of students take part each year.

The members of the graduating class of 1922 established this contest as an annual event when they presented the school with seven silver cups. One cup is larger than the others and is to be retained by the high school with the names of six winners engraved upon it. Each year one of the smaller cups has been presented to the winner of the contest and this year the final cup of the series of six was won by Russell Whyte.

Twenty-nine students started the preliminary group this year and twelve finally became eligible to compete in the final contest held on Wednesday evening, December 18th, 1929. The twelve speakers with their subjects were as follows:

1. "Football in High Schools and Colleges.".....Morris Choyke
2. "A Century of Industrial, Commercial and Social Progress.".....Claude Hawley
3. "Edison, the Greatest Benefactor of Mankind.".....Beatrice Welton
4. "The Future of Aviation in America.".....Edward Largent
5. "An Interesting Historical Character.".....Martha Balen
6. "Should the United States Establish the Largest Army and Navy in the World?".....John Kottcamp
7. "Athletics in the High School.".....Werner Zinn
8. "Education and Extra-Curricular Activities.".....David Painter
9. "One of America's Most Famous Statesman.".....George Price
10. "The Value of an Education".....Aldona Hentz
11. "International Peace, Will it Ever be Realized?".....Russell Whyte
12. "Lindbergh, the Ambassador of Good Will.".....Sydney Lasaine

BULLIDEIR

EARLY one September morning of nineteen twenty-nine a new group of apprentices joined the Waukegan builders. Although small of stature and young of age, these apprentices never weakened but learned to overcome such difficulties as six weeks tests, book reports, and algebraic equations. Some of the new workers did so well in physical labor that they made the Freshman-Sophomore football team. This team made a record that brought the young builders before the whole school. Not long after the second semester began the young workers decided to organize. They elected Derry Brewster president, Charlotte Levansdusky vice-president, and Kenneth Larson secretary-treasurer. With the aid of these officers and their sponsors, Miss Oke and Mr. McAfee, the freshmen gave a spring party. They now have their journeyman cards and doing a great deal toward building higher standards freshman are taking an active part in glee club, dramatics, athletics, and scholastic activities. They will be well prepared for the second step toward graduation.

Among the builders of our school there is a group of apprentices which have served for two years; this group is called the sophomore class. This class entered our portals junior A class, an arrival of nineteen twenty-seven. Even in that time they were a talented group. Besides doing well in their studies the students of this class majored in art, drama, athletics and music. Their officers were Guy Robbins, president, Virginia Dennis, vice-president, and Margaret Wandel, secretary-treasurer. In early spring the class gave a Freshman party. In their next year of building these students labored hard to win renown. Their efforts met with success. They had as leaders Karl, Daydiff, Margaret Wandel, and Eloise Welton. During this year the class excelled especially in dramatics and athletics. The president himself set an example by being a star athlete. It has been this last year that has especially advanced the juniors. The junior girls hold many positions as officers of clubs, a number of junior boys made the varsity teams, and members of the junior class starred in the operetta. The class took an active part in the social life of our school. The juniors co-operated with the seniors in giving the senior-junior party. They also gave a matinee dance, a dance after a basketball game, back in nineteen twenty-eight and was welcomed by its sponsors Miss Sexton and Mr. Ayre. After they had been here long enough to become acquainted with the merits of their fellow builders they elected their freshman officers. Robert Heydecker was chosen president, Thomas Drew, vice-president, and Robert Price, secretary-treasurer. With these officers as leaders they gave a party with decorations representing a garden scene. After becoming exceedingly proficient in their work and having joined the full fledged workmen, freshmen were raised to their present position as sophomores. The sophomores began to build in earnest. They specialized in scholastic and character building. Regina Gildea was chosen president of this industrious group. The other officers were Paul Lorraine, vice-president, and Thomas Drew, secretary treasurer. Early in the school year the sophomores gave a Halloween party as proof of their activeness. Later they came to the front in athletics led by such boys as Robert Price and George Taylor.

The sophomore-freshman football team will long be remembered for its excellent playing. The sophomores also made a place for themselves in dramatics and in the glee club. They accomplished much as sophomores and now prepared to advance.

One of the groups which have advanced beyond the apprenticeship stage is the

MENTAL

SCHOOL life has as one of its most important phases the academic or curricular portions of its repertoire. There are the recreational and athletic aspects, but these are merely milestones or "refreshment stands" which help to relieve the monotony of a long school term, and help to keep mind and body fit to cope with the obstacles that keep continually arising on all sides. A fit body produces a stronger and cleaner mind even as a keen, alert mind usually results in a strong, healthy body.

A course of study selected at the beginning of a high school career and carried throughout its four years duration has an important bearing on the future life and prosperity of the student, in the home he makes, and in the work he pursues. A study must be considered intelligently from all angles and selected for its practicability and the ease with which it can be applied to everyday life. Then, and only then, will it continue steadily to be a stepping stone to success

Whether the student plans for a continuation of knowledge through college and university channels or entrance into the business world, he will find before in the high school a wide variety of courses from which to select the exact course best suited to his needs. These courses have been worked out by school authorities through an understanding of the knowledge required in the various professions.

Aside from these basic subjects required in all courses, there are two others, elective and extra curricular subjects offered students excellent opportunities to study that branch of general knowledge in which he is particularly interested, whether it be athletics, debating, sociology, political economy, or others in the long and attractive list.

General requirements for entrance into accredited colleges or universities are somewhat varied. Most colleges require three years of English, one year of Algebra, and one of plane geometry, two years of modern foreign language or of Latin, one year of American history, and one year of science either physical or social. Extra curricular subjects count as credit towards graduation, but are not accepted as college entrance credits. This branch includes dramatics, band, orchestra, glee club, chorus and debating.

Electives are chosen to round out a well proportioned course. Domestic science, ancient history, dramatics, typing and shorthand, biology, auto mechanics, machinshop, are and several others are offered as electives, military is required of all the boys in the second and third years

Sixteen credits are required for graduation; fourteen are necessary for college or university entrance. The major part of this credit is made up of academic subjects, while the remaining is made up of electives and extra curricular subjects.

Too much stress can not be laid on the importance of major academics which compose the most vital part of the school program. Languages are given a conspicuous part because of their importance in developing the vocabulary and learning the customs of other countries. Mathematics aid in the developement of clear logical thinking. Subjects such as typing and shorthand or machine shop are of vocational value and once mastered are priceless as a basis for a business future.

THE PATTERSON MURDER CASE

PAUL W. SCHROTER, JR.

[The following story was selected as the winner of the contest sponsored by the Annual]

An office boy, at about six one morning, took an assignment sheet and laid it on Keith Grant's desk. If anyone had been curious enough to have glanced at the sheet, he would have read:

November 20, 1929.

Editor's Office, "The Times"
Assignment to Keith Grant:

"Mr. George H. Patterson, 322 Fairview Ave.,
found murdered in the library of his home. Body mutilated beyond recognition. Means of identification, ring on third finger of right hand.

"Cover at once.

"T. H. E. EDMONDS,
"Editor."

It was eight o'clock before Keith Grant ambled in.

"Mornin', Chief," he said.

"'Bout time you were getting here," growled Edmonds. "Where have you been? If you weren't one of our best little scoopers, I'd fire you. Over six hours ago Mr. Patterson was discovered dead in the library of his home, and there hasn't been a reporter from the Times there yet. I want to have it covered at once, and I want you to cover it."

"Why waste time praising me? Where is the Patterson home?"

"322 Fairplace Avenue. Hurry right over, and don't slam the door."

Grant took his hat and went out. A taxi soon had him there. He found an army of policemen trying to keep out an army of reporters. He knew one of the policemen, however, and was soon in the library. By a lucky coincidence, he also knew the police sergeant on duty there and was promptly informed of the details.

"Hello, Keith," called the sergeant. "Glad you came. You're the only sensible reporter I know."

"Right," said Keith, and then, "Where is the body?"

"Over there, under that sheet."

Grant went over and looked at it; it was indeed beyond recognition.

"Where's all the blood?" he asked.

"There is no blood. He must have been dead hours before he was clubbed."

"Did you find what he was clubbed with?"

"Yes, the killer left his weapon behind. That piece of pipe over there seems to have done the job."

"No finger prints?" asked Keith.

"Not an alien mark anywhere. Plenty of Patterson's, though."

"Find how the murderer got in?"

"Must have had a key. Not a door or a window has a sign of a jimmy on it."

"Patterson have any enemies?"

"Not that anyone knows of. He had plenty of money, though, now there isn't a dollar in the house. We have looked everywhere. Looks as if a robber had been surprised in the act, and had had to kill Patterson."

"Any professional robbers in town?"

"Yes, two that we know of, and we have men looking up their actions since yesterday. Nothing incriminating so far."

"How did you identify the body?"

"Well, Patterson was the only man in the house, and Patterson's clothes and ring are on that body. It's his height and build. It's him, all right."

"What did he do for a living? Did he carry any insurance?"

"He was a successful young business man; president of the Patterson Lumber Company. He carried insurance. His wife is going to get twenty-five thousand dollars."

"Do you think she might have done it?"

"Not a chance. It would have taken a man to mutilate a body so ferociously, and anyhow, Patterson was worth more alive than dead."

"How did she take the news?"

"None other."

"Take the news! Why, she discovered the body! She is all broken up over it. It seems that she was awakened by something at about two-thirty this morning. She went down stairs," she said. "And discovered the body of her husband. She was very much frightened and called the police at once. That's the story she told."

"She is at her sister's house. A Miss Whyte of 1202 Fourth Street."

"Not Miss Jane Whyte?"

"Where is Mrs. Patterson now?"

"Why, then Mrs. Patterson must be Miss Edna Whyte! I went to college with her, was almost engaged to her, in fact."

"Yes, Mrs. Patterson's first name is Edna."

"Well, good-bye. I'm going now," said Grant.

Grant went out and took the first street-car to Fourth Street. He soon found the 1202 address and asked to see Mrs. Patterson. He was told that she was not to be disturbed—doctor's orders. Failing there he went back to the Fairplace address. He found his friend, the sergeant, still on duty.

"Where was Patterson last night?" asked Grant.

"Mrs. Patterson said that he told her he was going to the Passavell club in Chicago, and would probably go to a night club later. We called up the Passavell club, and they said that Mr. Patterson left about nine-thirty. Now it was two-thirty when Mrs. Patterson found the body. Where George Patterson was between nine-thirty and two-thirty is a matter still unsolved."

"When is the inquest to be held?"

"Tomorrow at three o'clock."

At three-fifteen the verdict of "death by person or persons unknown" was returned. When Keith was leaving the undertaking parlor, a cub reporter from the Times asked him to take an assignment back to the office. Keith said he would. On the way back Keith happened to glance at the assignment sheet and read, "Vandals Rob Grave In Glendale Park. Believe College Students Responsible." That was all Keith read, for something else took his attention just then.

The inquest took place on Tuesday, and it was Thursday when Grant finally interviewed Mrs. Patterson.

"Why, Keith," Mrs. Patterson exclaimed, when he entered the room. "I didn't know you were the persistent Mr. Grant."

Keith paused and looked at Mrs. Patterson. In spite of her sad and care-worn expression, she was still the beautiful girl he had known in college. He had thought a lot of Mrs. Patterson then and not much less now.

"Hello, Edna," Grant said. "It's been over three years since I last saw you."

"Yes, three long years. You haven't changed a bit. You're still the same likeable boy."

"And you're the same intriguing Edna! You could always get what you wanted out of me." He looked at her sympathetically. "I wish I could help you now. This is a very sad business. Do you know of anyone who might have been your husband's enemy?"

"No, I do not. George was an honest man, and was liked by everyone that I know of."

"Did your husband say where he was going or when he would get back?"

"Yes, he did. He said he was going to the Passavell club, and might later go to a night club."

"Did he mention the name of the night club?"

"No, he didn't, Keith. George was always like that,—indefinite."

"Have you a picture of him that I could have for a few days?"

"Yes, Keith. You may keep this picture of him. It's really very good."

"Thanks, Edna. I've got to go now, good-bye."

"Good-bye, Keith. Come again. I need a friend."

Grant drove to Chicago, an hour's drive, and made the rounds of the night clubs. No. No one had seen a man like Patterson last Sunday night. Grant had to head toward home, disappointed. On his way back, he stopped at a restaurant in Glendale Park, for a bite to eat. While he was taking off his overcoat, the picture of Mr. Patterson dropped from his pocket. The waiter picked it up, remarking as he did so, that a man looking something like that had been in last Sunday night.

"What!" exclaimed Grant. "You say that man was here last Sunday?"

"Yes, I remember him because we were closing up for the night and had to unlock the door."

"Were his actions unusual?" asked Grant.

"He seemed nervous, and asked where the Ridge cemetery was."

"He did?"

"Yes, and when I told him, he went out and drove off. I thought it was funny that a man should ask where a cemetery was at eleven o'clock at night."

"Thanks, and now you may bring me an order of steak and . . ."

When Grant finished he asked the waiter the location of the Ridge cemetery. "About a mile down the first road to the right," the waiter replied, and added, "The cemetery seems to be getting popular."

When Grant arrived at the cemetery he was surprised, for it was even more deserted than any he had ever seen. Why, almost anything could happen here, thought Grant, and no one would be any the wiser. He suddenly remembered the assignment sheet about the grave in Glendale Park. If anyone had been listening, they would have been surprised to hear Grant murmur, "I wonder. It's possible." Grant got out of his car, and, since there was sufficient light to see by, he entered the graveyard. In about the middle of the graveyard he found an open grave, and near the grave something shiny caught the last rays of the setting sun, and reflected them into Grant's eye. Grant picked it up, examined it carefully and with an exclamation of surprise, put it carefully into his pocket.

The next day he went to visit Mrs. Patterson. He saw, with little surprise, that she was in the midst of packing her trunk. She told him she was leaving town immediately.

"Yes, Keith, the insurance company paid me my $25,000 this morning, and I am going right now. This publicity is unbearable."

"Did your husband have any stock when the Market crashed last month?"

"I do not know, Keith. He may have."

"Just how did your husband stand financially?"

"I'd rather not talk about that, Keith."

"Well, then, was anything of value taken by the mythical robber who killed your husband?"

"Mythical? What do you mean? Oh, Keith, don't be like that. The police have asked me so many questions and now you start."

"Well, answer just this one. Why did your husband go to the Ridge cemetery in Glendale Park last Sunday night?"

Mrs. Patterson paled and said nervously, "A cemetery?"

"Come, Edna. Give me the truth. I couldn't tell on you anyhow."

"I know I can trust you, Keith. I will tell you."

"Hurry, Edna. I have to be back at the office soon."

"Here is the story, Keith. My husband was wiped out in the stock market crash, which accounts for the absence of money in the house the other day. He had been despondent, nearly to suicide; being deterred only by the suicide clause in his insurance policy. He finally hit upon a scheme. O, I didn't like it! I would rather be poor forever. But what could I do?" She lost—for a moment, her composure. Then she went on: "He went to a cemetery and dug up the body of a man just recently buried; and dressing it in his own clothes he put his ring on the finger. Then he battered the body beyond recognition. He hasn't been well since; it has made a wreck of him."

"Enough to make any man a wreck."

"Yes, but George is no weakling," continued Mrs. Patterson. "With the insurance money, we will go out West and start all over, under an assumed name. I am prepared

"Oh, he is here, then?"

"Yes, he is my chauffeur now."

Grant looked out of the window. The chauffeur was dark skinned and had dark hair, while Mr. Patterson was light skinned and had blonde hair. Well, thought Grant, he is certainly a good makeup artist. He turned to Mrs. Patterson, "You wonder how I solved the 'murder'?"

"Yes; if you did, others may."

"Well, when you go, please give your chauffeur his Phi Beta Kappa pin. I found it near a grave in Glendale Park, and with 'G. H. P., '24' on it, I knew it was Mr. Patterson's."

Incidentally, the coroner's verdict of "person or persons unknown" still stands opposite George Patterson's name.

THE NIGHT BEFORE BOOK REPORTS

Draped over a big overstuffed chair in the dusky lamplit parlor of a modern kitchenette apartment, the Little Freshman labored over "Tom Sawyer." One grimy hand tugged at his glossy crop of curls while the other thumbed the pages in the struggle with the most hated of spectres, Book Report. His baby lips silently moved as he read word by word. At the foot of the big chair seated uncomfortably on a small cedar chest, feet sprawled toward the center of the room and head resting on one of the Freshman's knees sat the Senior. This paragon of intelligence was also reading a book report. She raised an interested eyebrow as she quietly turned the pages of Henry James' "Portrait of a Lady." On the opposite side of the room sat the Weary Mother embroidering a dainty boudoir pillow. She opened her mouth to speak and then closed it with a snap. Book reports were so exhausting. No one dared as much as breathe a word the night before book reports. A little later the Weary Mother gathered courage. "What color would you make the basket?"

Lifting the eyebrow slightly higher on her noble brow, the Senior made her voice sound as impressive and final as possible. "I think that I should make it a deep violet."

"That wasn't the way I saw it worked up."

"That was merely my interpretation of the color scheme I should use. I'm entitled to my opinion. You just asked my advice and I told you what I should do. I knew you wouldn't do it anyway."

"—But the incidents of his adventure grew sensibly sharper and clearer under the attrition of thinking them over, and so he presently found himself leaning to the impression that the thing might not have been a dream, after all. This uncertainty must be snatched away. He would snatch a hurried breakfast and go and find—"

"Please, dear, don't read out loud; it makes mother's head ache."

"Well! How the heck is a fella gona get his book done when two womin get to gabbin?"

"Can't we even talk?"

"If you'd jist say something and stop, but yuh keep goin' along sassin' each other an' never get thru."

"That will be enough."

The Senior's head suffered a hard bounce descreetly given by the Freshman's knee. Embroidering the basket deep violet the Weary Mother sighed and was glad that book reports came but once in a six weeks period. Again it was quiet.

MONDAY IN MADAME CHIC'S SMART SHOP

Miss Hunter of Madame Chic's Smart Shop sensed that this was to be truly Blue Monday. To begin with she had hurried in fifteen minutes late, and now—she had known it would come—a stylish stout was advancing down the aisle. Hiding her thoughts Mary Hunter greeted the customer, who was bedecked, marcelled, and manicured, within an inch of her life.

"Good morning. Is there anything I can do for you?"

"O yes," gurgled the Stylish Stout. "I should like to see what you have in the way of afternoon frocks. One of the girls is having a bridge party tomorrow, and I told Billie this morning, he is awfully critical of the shade I wear. He says that he doesn't want me to wear any of these dark, old-womanish dresses."

"This one trimmed with velvet is very smart."

"O my, no! that is miles too big," she squealed with horror. Then she whispered confidentially, "Why do people let themselves get so fat? I bet that woman over there wears at least a forty. What funny taste she has! I really believe she is going to buy that black dress. By the way, have you a blue dress like that green one in the window?"

"Not just exactly, but I think there is one on that order over on the thirty dollar rack. Yes here it is."

"This is the one for me. Billie says, 'what is a wife for if she isn't to be petted and taken care of?' Maybe I had better have him decide. He can come down with me before he goes to the office in the morning."

"The shop will be pleased to send them to your home or let you take them now if you have a car outside."

"That will be lovely. I shall take them now and Billie can bring the one I don't take back in the morning."

In five minutes Mrs. Billie was on her way home and Miss Hunter was much relieved, and greatly amused by the mental picture of Billie helping his darling in and out of the wisps of chiffon. With a wry smile she strolled down the aisle, murmuring, "Poor Billie."

CINDERELLA'S CHOICE

(A burlesque)

Cinderella did not live happily ever after, because she had a brother who by profession was a thief, and a husband who by choice, was a tyrant. The brother, whose name was Cinders Al knew nothing about her marriage to the Prince, Yala, who had turned out to be hot-tempered, stubborn, and jealous.

One starry night, five years after their marriage, Cinderella and Yala were passing through one of their lonely and wonderful gardens. From out of the bushes there stole a shadowy form and knocked down king Yala, who fell noiselessly on the soft grass. Cinderella's subdued scream brought the thief to his feet. He flashed a dagger.

"You!" she gasped, "Cinders Al."

"Cinderella! Am I dreaming—you—the queen! Is it possible?"

"A thief—you're not a thief, my brother; I can't believe it. Tell me you are not."

"I am," he replied; "now, keep quiet while I get his treasure keys."

"Oh, no, no, Cinders Al," she cried, "you'll be caught. They'll burn you to death. My life will be wrecked. I won't let—"

"Let go of me. Don't hold me, or I'll, I'll—." He lifted his knife as if to use it.

She gasped and stared at him tongue-tied, as he tore away from king Yala's belt the keys which he wanted. They heard distant footsteps.

"They're coming, Cinders!" She grew more excited. "Take this ring—they're coming. Do you see that house over there, on that side? Show them this ring; they'll hide you. Go!" As he disappeared, she cried, "What have I done?"

As the servants approached, she stooped down and tried to awaken the king to consciousness. In a few minutes the king, recovered from his shock, demanded that Cinderella tell him what had taken place.

"I don't know," she said nervously; "somebody just knocked you down, and stole something. That is all I know."

"You're lying!" He felt around his belt. "My keys,—one, two, three, four,—four keys are missing. Who took them?"

"I told you. A man suddenly struck you down, and stole your keys."

"Why didn't you cry for help?"

"Didn't I? I thought I did."

He noticed the absence of her ring. "Ah, where is your ring?"

"He took it," she cried; "he took it. I forgot to tell you."

"Listen, you've betrayed yourself; and you are trying to betray me; but you won't. In a few minutes—if you don't tell me the truth, you—you will be burned at the stake!"

"Burned—burned at the stake?"

"Yes."

For only one year had she been happy with him; the other four years she had been very unhappy. He was jealous of her. He had killed a courtier whom he had seen talking with her. Although she was beautiful, she realized that she could never love and be loved by any other man; the king would kill her first. He loved her as he loved his hundred caskets of gold and silver. He didn't trust her; he didn't believe in her; even now he was ready to kill her. Never again would she be happy with him. There seemed to lie no happy future before her.

Yet why should she sacrifice her life to save a murderous brother? Had he not killed people for the sake of a golden ring or bracelet? He surely would have killed her had she made any noise for help. He deserved to die. Yet—

"Speak," said the king, "Your time has come to an end."

A TALE BY AN OLD TIMER

One dark night, in a wild country in Northwestern Canada, a group sat about a campfire. They were swarthy faced, roughly dressed and plain outdoor men. Silently they drew closer together and looked expectantly at an old timer. The old timer sat with his knees drawn up and his peaked hat cocked on one side. His clothes were rough and worn threadbare by long service. He straightened his position slightly in answer to the demand for a story and glanced quizzically around the circle.

"Mine happened a long time ago," he began as he slowly punched some pieces of partly burned branches into the fire, which sent the flames and sparks upward again. "I lived with my parents at the upper end of a valley in the mountains. It was like going to the ends of the earth to get there and the place was so lonesome the settlers used to talk to themselves for company. They believed in signs and omens. They ate and planted and slept by themselves, and whoever stopped around there for a time generally began to believe in them also. There were some mighty queer happenings in that valley.

At the lower end of the valley, old man Childs and his wife had a little shack. They were as odd a pair as you would ever find in a life time. One August night the old codger dreamed he would die when the leaves turned, and the old fellow woke up nearly scared to death. He knew that to dream of dying was a mighty bad sign and he began to watch for other signs. First a bird flew thru the house straight past his chair and not long after that a cricket chirped the night thru under his bed. At last came the sign that every soul in the valley dreaded. One Sunday morning the chickens failed to crow. The old man lay and listened, but not a rooster cheeped. His fear was a fact after that to the neighbors. After that he was as good as dead, in the minds of the neighbors. Everyone expected him to go with the first frost. The neighbors sent for his son, Henry and the day Henry came the old fellow made his will. The next morning old man Childs was found in bed stone dead."

THE VERGILLIAN BIMILLENNIUM

Two thousand years ago, near Mantua, Italy, there was born one of the greatest figures in the field of literature, Publius Vergilius Maro, commonly known as Vergil. The anniversary of his birth is to be celebrated this year throughout the world that the public may know more of the life and works of this great poet. For Vergil has won world-wide love and admiration for his achievements in three fields of verse, the greatest of which is epic. Vergil's "Aeneid" shares with the "Iliad" and "Odyssey" the highest honors in the epic field. The influence exerted by the Roman poet on European literature is shown in the works of Dante, Dryden, Tennyson and many others.

The Vergilian celebration, which will extend to every community, will be fittingly observed in schools, colleges, clubs, art-galleries, and libraries. In countless ways the high merits of Vergil are being extolled. Poems, stories, and plays are being presented before clubs or over the radio; and posters, plaques, book-plates, or medals are being designed.

Plans have been made for a Vergilian pilgrimage, the purpose of which is to follow the wanderings of Aeneas, the hero of the, "Aeneid," from Troy to Italy, and to visit the birthplace of Vergil.

Surely, such a poet is worthy of this tribute paid him. He who has given us some of our greatest literary works and presented in them the highest ideals of living should have our admiration always.

DE VITA P. VERGIGI MARONIS

Publius Vergilius Maro, poeta clarissimus Romanus A. U. C. 684 Mantuae natus est. Cum pater eius non dives esset, tamen labore possessionem parvam et satis pecuniae consecutus est ut filium Publicum Cremonam et Mediolanum et Roman ad studia sequenda mitteret. Publius in eis locis iuris civilis prudentiae operam dedit. Ad hoc studium autem erat non aptus et id mox neglexit.

Post proelium Philipicum, Antonius et Octavianus qui militibus suis agros praemium dare volebant possessiones patris eius ceperunt. Amici Vergili ab Augusto petierunt ut praedium conservaretur. Augustus id fecit sed denique agri capti sunt et Vergilius propter damnum villa Neapoli compensatus est. Quamquam Neapolis ei maxime placebat, Romae quopue domum habuit qua in urbe multos amicos veros consecutus est. Interquos erant Augustus et Maecenas.

A. U. C. 713 Bucolica, decem libros pastorales, emisit. Deinde Georica, quattuor libros de rebus rusticis scripsit. A. U. C. 723 cohortatione Augusti opus eius summum et clarissimum incepit Cum exemplar primum perfecisset, Athenas ut eo poema poliret, profectus est. Adventus Augusti autem sententiam mutavit et in Italiam nunc rediit. Vergilio prospera valetudo numquam fuerat et iter ut ille in morbum incideret, effecit. Bundisi A. U. C. 735 vita discessit. Hunc Neapoli hos elogio humaverunt: "Mantua me genuit: Calabri rapuere: tenet nunc Parthenope: cecini Pascua, rura, duces." Quod Aeneida ad finem non perduxerat libros incendi voluit. Id Augustus vetuit. Forma metrica non superata est et epos poemantibus claris duobus Homeris solis primum locum concedit.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The Girls' Athletic Association Club is one of the most active clubs for girls in Waukegan Township High School. In the fall, the girls practiced hard and had some very good soccer games. As soon as one sport ended another began promptly. Volleyball came next into full swing. Many who did not come out for soccer woke up and played good volleyball. Right after Christmas vacation, the girls began real basketball practice. Basketball seems to be a very popular sport as many girls turned out for it. There was keen competition between all classes which resulted in some very good games. Finishing up basketball with a good touch, the G. A. A. girls of Waukegan took first place in the girls' telegraphic contest. The score average of the contest for our school was 33.44. We received a beautiful banner which will take its place along side our other banners in the Girls' Gym Office.

Large numbers of girls are coming out for indoor baseball. While these sports are going on there is a great deal of activity in the swimming pool. Such large numbers of girls took part in after school swimming that two classes were made. Both classes worked hard to pass their Junior Life Saving Test. Sixteen girls have passed their Junior Life Saving Test and two girls, Grace Stevens and Gunhild Peterson passed their Senior Life Saving Test. Miss Wells, girls' swimming instructor held several interclass swimming meets. G. A. A. girls are very busy sponsoring a water ballet, "Conch Shell," which will be given on May 9, in the High School pool. Many laughs, thrills, and good swimmers are expected. While activity reigned in the sport section of the club, the social and business part was not idle. Very early in September the G. A. A. gave a party for the Freshman girls in order to acquaint them with the club. Hikes are very delightful in fall weather. G. A. A. held their first hike on October 4 which was greatly enjoyed. A kid party for the sport teams was a great novelty. Childish costumes, games such as "London Bridge's Falling Down," and lollypops gave much distinction to the party. Not only parties are held during the year but also meetings. These meetings are remembered by initiates for many years. In every sport in which the girls participate, they received points. First award for 600 points is a G. A. A. pin, second award is A. W. in felt. The next two awards for 1,600, and 2,000 points are given by the Illinois League Girls' Athletic Association. A girl's high school education is hardly complete without participating in at least one sport every year during her short time of high school life, for four years seem very short when you are active all the time.

CHES CLUB

The beginning of the 1929-30 school year saw a group of boys meeting to again form the well known Chess Club. As a recreation between moves, the club indulges in glee club activities.

As part of the annual schedule a tournament was held. Twenty boys entered. The tournament entrants divided into two classes. Class A consisted of experienced players. As fate would have it for encouragement of beginners, the champion from class B, James Stewart, defeated the champion from Class A.

After the tournament, Mr. Schmitkin, sponsor, announced a meet with the New Trier chess club held here April 4. The squad eligible to enter interschool contests contains the following beligerants: Sam Burgess, Ed. Carney, Paul Schroter, Ed. Largent, Bernard Stone, Robert Wilmot, and Max Kaplan.

DEBATE

Debating has always been one of the principal public speaking activities of the students of Waukegan Township high school. Many of the students take part in this work either as members of the public speaking class or as members of the teams.

The league is organized on a basis of five districts, the northern, southern, central, eastern and western. Waukegan is assigned to the northern district and in this position comes under the management of A. N. Annas of State Teachers college, De Kalb, Illinois.

For the past two seasons Waukegan has had the pleasure of participating in the district tournament. This was made possible by winning a sufficient number of preliminary debates. Two years ago our teams won the district championship and took third place in the state meet. At this writing the local speakers are determined to visit De Kalb as contestants for the third consecutive season.

The good results of this debate work are evident in the reports from many of the leading colleges and universities, especially Wisconsin, Dartmouth, De Pauw, Chicago, and Notre Dame where several of our former debaters are creating honors for themselves in different kinds of public speaking work. It is seldom that a student debates on a high school team without making a name for himself in some form of public speaking in later life.

The debaters of Waukegan Township high school are divided into two groups, negative and affirmative and the six best speakers are then selected to speak in the first series of debates. The students who won positions on the teams this season were;

Affirmative—Claude Hawley, Werner Zinn, Glenn Seidenfeld.

Negative—Herbert Jacobs, Edward Largent, Lester Ball.

The question that these two teams discussed is stated as follows: "Resolved that government should retain ownership of, control and operate the principal sources of hydro-electric power in the United States."

In the series of preliminary contests each team competed in two debates, once at home and once as a visiting team. During the season of 1929-30 Waukegan was scheduled to debate with the Central Y. M. C. A. high school of Chicago in two contests on March 21st. In the second series the schedule called for two debates between Waukegan and Riverside to be held on April 4th.

In the northern district the four schools having the largest number of judges' decisions were eligible to participate in the district tournament held at State Teachers college, De Kalb, Illinois. The winner of this meet was then eligible to compete in the state finals. This final meet was held at Teachers college, Macomb, Illinois.

DRAMATIC CLUB

The Dramatics club has been organized since 1927. Each year its membership, mostly seniors, engage in activities to promote interest in the stage and its players and to give its members a chance to take part in its programs. This is done by the presentation of plays, skits, by speakers and by seeing some of the plays of the stage in Chicago.

The years activities of the club have been varied. The club made a trip to Chicago to see Show Boat in the first semester, next a matinee program of skits was given. A short play "Charge It," was given before the retail merchants credit association. Together with the history club, a Washington-Lincoln program was written and presented at a school assembly. A group of skits were given before the North Chicago P. T. A. and to the Rotary Club. A mothers day program is scheduled, together with another skit program. It has been the aim of the club to have a program of the nature that would give all the members a chance to participate.

- January 15 The second movie "VINCENNES," also an Our Gang comedy, "GOOD CHEER." Three hundred were present. Excepting wrong labels on the reels and the failure to rewind one reel, and a few breaks in another reel, everything was lovely and a good time was had by all.
- January 22 Two boxes of clothing were collected and expressed to the Piney Woods School because of the fire in the girl's dormitory.
- January 30 The second annual banquet was held in the school cafeteria. Attendance, one hundred thirty, seventy alumni, forty-five of the 1930 club. Mr. and Mrs. Thalman, Mr. and Mrs. Diver, and History teachers were guests.
- Printed invitations were sent all former members. Patriotic colors, silhouettes of Washington and Lincoln and the newly-adopted club monogram by Helen Conover were used in decorating. Attractive place cards and tiny flags were the favors.
- After a short program of singing and speaking all adjourned to the Junior Assembly where a stunt was given by each of the five clubs. The 1926 club offered a tap dance, the 1927 club presented Broadcasting station W. T. H. S., the 1928 group was represented by an interpretative dance, the Penny-Arcade was staged by the 1929 bunch, and an old fashioned photograph gallery by the 1930 club was the final number. Dancing on the third floor was the finishing touch to a very delightful evening.
- Committee in charge: General chairman, Sophia Macknick; monograms, Helen Conover; decorations, Margery Ellinwood; invitations, Esther Ball; menu, Virginia Bairstow; program, Dorothy Streeter, and place cards, Walter Brunet.
- February 6 Fourth meeting of the History Club. Ruth Hayman gave a report on the Lincoln-Washington program. A letter of appreciation from Piney Woods school was read.
- February 12 A Lincoln-Washington program was presented by the History and Dramatics Clubs in the gymnasium. The History Club committee consisted of Ruth Hayman, Sylvia Jacobs, Floyd Kistler, Evelyn Haese, and Marlin Buzzard. Participants were Louise Zelesnik, Marlin Buzzard, Eleanor Moore, Sylvia Jacobs and Evelyn Haese.
- February 20 Third movie "COLLEGE," starring Buster Keaton. Paul Sifler starred at the piano. Buster was somewhat delayed in reaching the heroine when the belt in the picture machine slipped.
- March 4 Fifth meeting of the History Club. A report on Amateur Night was given. The Amateur Night committee consisted of Floyd Kistler, general chairman; Eleanor Moore and Frances Ford, program committee, chairmen; advertising, Helen Conover; tickets, Mildred Cobb, and property and stage manager, Charles Shelby. - March 24 The sixth meeting of the History Club. A report on the mock primary election was made.
- March 27 The second Amateur Night was given in the gymnasium. A writeup is on another page.
- April 8 Mock primary election was held for all homerooms.
- The seventh meeting of the History Club. A final report of the mock primary election was given. A Music Memory contest was held. Many orders given for rings and pins.
- The fourth movie "ALEXANDER HAMILTON."
- The eighth meeting of the History Club. A picnic committee was appointed. Final report of movie committee given.
- The last meeting of the History Club. A report was given by the picnic committee. A summary of the year's work was given by the club Historian.
- The third annual History Club picnic was held.

SECOND ANNUAL AMATEUR NITE

One of the outstanding events of the year sponsored by the History club, and one that is looked forward to by all, is Amateur nite. The performance this year was the second of its kind, given at Waukegan Township high school. Its success was made possible by the untiring efforts of the sponsors and committees.

The purpose of this entertainment is to let the students show their ability and originality. All of the acts were planned by the students themselves, and they showed considerable talent.

There were thirteen acts on this year's program. The first act was the German band given by the band boys and directed by Oiva Salminen, who lead them to second place. An amateur "Nite Court" conducted by the ever-ready Earl Smith and his gang, proved a big success. Edna Chapman supported by a well chosen cast, won third prize with an "Our Gang" stunt. The Junior Chemists presented "Explosives," Russell Whyte being the professor and Joe Lima, his right-hand man. The R. O. T. C. gave a special new drill, which evinced considerable effort in its preparation. Paul Sifler's Revue, with its humorous reading, singing and dancing, was well given. Leona Crabtree and her girls displayed their abilities in "When I Was Young." A clever stunt, the "Woman in the Shoe," was given by the Girls' league. Shakespeare was "hashed" by some of the Girl Reserves. "Campus Frolics," a dexterous comedy was lead by Seymour Cohn and Sylvia Jacobs. They were supported by five girls who danced, sang, and carried off the honors of the evening by winning first prize. The Scandals of 1930 was presented by four senior boys who let the "cat out of the bag." The Two Black Crows deserve honorable mention. The Faculty, to prove that they are human, put on an old time minstrel to end the evening.

The History club was fortunate in securing student judges from nearby high schools. They were as follows: Howard Mastne, Antioch; Constance Rollins, Libertyville; Annabelle Junge, Gurnee; Margaret Kerr, Deerfield, and Richard Schuettge, New Trier.

Floyd Kistler, general chairman deserves much for his work. The chairmen of the committees were:

Charles Shelby, property and stage; Mildred Cobb, tickets; Frances Ford, program; Helen Conover, advertising; Ruth Hayman, invitations and ushers, and Sylvia Jacobs, make-ups.

Le Cercle Francais, which has been one of the most active clubs of W. T. H. S. since 1916, was reorganized last fall. The French club strives to bring the French students into closer relationship with France and her people. Through the club we learn more of France, her customs, language, and life. The business meetings and programs are conducted in French whenever possible.

Under the able leadership of Mlle. Kaarina Rautalahti, the club progressed during the first semester. Our president graduated in Febuary, and Mlle. Linda Harma was elected to succeed her. This year we have held many interesting meetings. Among other numbers given were several sketches which were written by club members. The club has subscribed to two French newspapers. May next year's club be as successful.

HI Y CLUB

Purpose: "To create, maintain and extend throughout the school and community, high standards of Christian character."

Sponsors report a very successful season for the Hi-Y club. As is the custom, the club sent two delegates to the Older Boys' conference which was held at Danville, Illinois.

During the high school basketball season, the club sponsored a very profitable dance. The Hi-Y basketball team had a good season, being the runnerup in the city lightweight tournament.

A number of good speakers were obtained this year to speak to the club on various subjects. There were twenty-three members enrolled in the club for the year 1929-1930.

JUNIOR CHEMISTS

The Junior Chemists have been organized as a regular club for the last year. The club was originally organized in order that those who were interested in chemistry could learn additional material to that taught in class. The membership now is not limited just to those taking chemistry but to all who are interested. Each meeting three of the club members are asked to arrange the program. They talk on some topic relating to chemistry or they perform an experiment. Each member is required to furnish part of the program at least once each semester. The club meetings are held every second Tuesday. New club officials are appointed each half-year.

GIRLS' LEAGUE

On October 8, 1929, a meeting of the sophomore, junior and senior girls was called for the purpose of presenting to them some ideas regarding the formation of a girls club. The purpose of such a club is to be the fostering of cooperation and good fellowship among the girl students of the high school.

As a result of this meeting the Girl's League was temporarily organized and at a second meeting on November 15, 1929 the Girl's league became a permanent organization. At this meeting the officers were elected as follows: president, Edna Chapman; vice-president, Idelle Doolittle; secretary, Evelyn Haese; treasurer, Marcella Russell; reporter, Winifred Taylor. Four committees were formed and the chairmen were elected as follows: social, Esther Ball; good fellowship, Beeda Littunen; charity, Lucille Anderson; financial, Margaret Wandel.

In the short time in which the league has been in existence much has been accomplished. The league has successfully sponsored a number of dances which have aided in putting the league on a sound financial basis. The league also assisted the Rotary Club in sponsoring a Christmas party for the crippled children of the city.

On March 15, twenty-four of the girls attended the Girls' conference at University of Chicago. All the girls had a splendid time and enjoyed a most delightful luncheon and program.

MATHEMATICS CLUB

The Mathematics club has this year devoted its time exclusively to the study of the slide rule, an instrument with which to perform mechanically the operations of multiplying, dividing, finding powers, and extracting roots. The slide rule is of use not only in the various branches of mathematics and science such as algebra, geometry, trigonometry, physics and chemistry, but also in the practical everyday work of the merchant, engineer, chemist and electrician.

After the members of the club had learned to perform the fundamental operations on the slide rule, various types of problems were solved and the theory of the construction of the slide rule was studied.

CARTOON CLUB

The Cartoon Club has known a success during these years of '29 and '30 that it had not known for a long time. Not only were the posters better, but more in number. The attendance of the club had also increased, as had the membership. The advertizing of big high school events was well taken care of by a very capable member of the club. In this branch, the posters were printed by the W. T. H. S. Print Shop.

The Poster Club of 1930 wishes to thank its able sponsor, Mr. Jickling. He was always ready with valuable advice when the club was in need of such.

PHYSICAL

PHYSICAL activities help us to build strong, sturdy, healthy bodies and to develop our mental intellect. Athletics furnish amusements in the form of competitive sports of football, basketball, baseball and track. Both intra-mural and interscholastic games are played in which everyone is free to take part if he so desires. Now, what school curriculum would be complete without them? Our school offers the activities of swimming, track, football, baseball, basketball, tennis, golf, soccer, volleyball and military, not to mention classes in physical training. In order to be able to give the students the most enjoyment possible from such activities our school has provided us with a new gymnasium fully equipped with the most modern appliances including a large swimming pool. We not only have this wonderful gymnasium at our disposal but also an unusually well kept athletic field and field house. The field has a girderon in the center encircled by a cinder track with a hundred yard straightway. In the north-west corner one finds some splendid tennis courts. The south-west corner is occupied by the baseball diamond. There are two sets of bleachers for the use of the numerous spectators who come to view our games. At all the competitive games held on the field and in the gymnasium, music is furnished by the school band. Our band well represents W T H S. It's one hundred and seven members are well trained. This is reflected by the many honors they have won. We have been given every opportunity to enjoy a healthy, happy, and successful school life and in the following pages you will find in picture and story a complete record of what our school has accomplished along these lines.

Co-ordinating with the other farms of physical activity we find the R O T C unit of the school, taking an important part. Later in this section of our book you will find a complete statement of the aims, activities and accomplishments of this work. Here again theory and practice are combined in correct proportions to make the work interesting, healthful, and helpful. The government lends a hand in maintaining this activity of a maximum part of efficiency by means of careful regulations, systematic procedure, and constant thorough inspection.

W. T. H. S. ORCHESTRA

The W. T. H. S. orchestra has made an excellent record for the year. Its performance at the concert on March 12, 1930, being worthy of special note. This concert was given in cooperation with the girls' glee club. Misha Livshutz, a virtuoso of the violin, assisted at the program. Mr. Livshutz won the audience with his excellent technic, beautiful and inspiring tone, and wonderful personality.

Five members of the orchestra were sent to Urbana to the all-state-high-school-orchestra. Of the five we received three firsts and two seconds. Eva Lois Meyer was chosen concert mistress, an honor to be extremely proud of. William Moore placed first in the tuba section, Everett Chamberlain, first, bassoon, Charles Snow, second flute, and Orvo Kuusisto, second clarinet.

The orchestra was further honored by having two of its members, Eva Lois Meyer and William Moore, selected to play in the national high school orchestra at Atlantic City, New Jersey. At the concert Eva Lois Meyer was placed thirty-second in competition with one hundred and seventy-five violinists. William Moore placed second among eight tuba players.

W.T.H.S BAND

The 1929-30 band is the largest in the history of the school, having an enrollment of one hundred and three. About 50% of those enrolled are freshmen. Mr. O. E. Graham, the director, ascribes the rapid progress of this year's band to the fact that the band was kept together during the summer of 1929 with one rehearsal and one concert each week. The concerts, sponsored by the Kiwanis club, were given in the different parks throughout the city. The band is very grateful to the Kiwanis for making it possible for it to keep up a schedule of training during the summer. In addition to this work small ensemble groups were organized together with weekly sectional rehearsals.

In 1929 the band placed in playing, won first in marching at the district contest held at Elgin. This allowed competition in the state contest at Urbana. Here our boys received first place in marching for the second consecutive time and thus adding to their trophies a banner and four shields. The band, in the words of Colonel Weeks, the senior judge of the state marching contest, "marched as near perfect as it is humanly possible to march."

Our school was given further honor by having five of our soloists place first in the solo contests held at Elgin. Reino Lindroos, first of the cornet soloists, beating last year's champion; Raymond Aho, xylophone, first; Harold Maki, saxophone, first; Gladstone Hopkins, bass clarinet, first; Leo Lehto, alto clarinet, first. The excellent work of these boys continued at the state contest. Maki and Lehto placed third in their sections while Lindroos and Aho placed second and first respectively. This feat entitled them to compete in the national contest held at Denver. At Denver both boys took second place in the sections giving Waukegan high school the distinction of producing winners at national solo contests, an honor which has never before been enjoyed. In addition to the work done in preparing for these laurels the band served the school and community by playing at meetings, patriotic celebrations, parades and athletic games.

SEVENTH ANNUAL BAND DANCE

Each year the Waukegan high school band has given a dance. It has become an annual affair in the band's yearly program. The students, graduates, and the faculty look forward to it with enthusiasm.

Incoming dancers opening the doors were greeted by a black curtain hung over the doorway. On the inside, bare, black walls further helped to make the theme of the dance mysterious. White rags were used to represent stalactites which hung from a rough burlap ceiling. As people gazed about, a glaring ghost, a human skeleton, set in an alcove and illuminated by soft green lights, startled all.

Programs for the dance consisted of two shells which made the cover. Between the shells tied by a string were small pencils and space for the dance program.

People as they left the cave, took note of the painted rock formations like those of a real cave.

Bronze shields and other trophies won by the Band in District and State contests, and medals won by the soloists were displayed.

The theme for the decorations was a Hawaiian thatched house. The solid overhead made it impossible to see the gym roof. The decorations had the dense beauty of a Hawaiian jungle. Twelve thousand square feet of reeds were used to make the overhead. Each reed was sewn by hand.

The orchestra platform represented a veranda ornamented with hanging, potted ferns, palm leaves and Spanish moss. Two amber spotlights illuminated the platform from the opposite side of the floor.

A surprise was given in the seventh dance. Amid melodious harmony from the orchestra, a shower of four hundred and fifty balloons of amber hue caused a bombardment and also excitement.

The cooperation of the band boys and the spirit shown made the decorations possible. The amount of work and beauty of the decorations would be very hard to surpass in the coming annual band dance.

HEAVYWEIGHT FOOTBALL SQUAD

Coach Ralph Fletcher issued the first call for heavyweight football candidates September 3rd, with sixty men responding. Within one week the varsity and second teams were singled out.

September 21 the Purple and Gold took the field against the heavier team from Roosevelt High of Chicago. Waukegan was victorious with a score of 12-0.

On September 28, Waukegan was defeated in her first out of town game by Deerfield 31-0.

Following a week of practice the downstate team from Moline was defeated by our boys, the final score being 7-6. The following Saturday Kenosha, by scoring twelve points in the last ten minutes of play defeated Waukegan 12-6. October 19, the Purple and Gold traveled to Dubuque, Iowa. Dubuque defeated Waukegan 6-0, the Dubuque team scoring in the first quarter. October 26, being an open date, the varsity squad attended the Notre Dame-Northwestern game at Evanston. New Trier outfought Waukegan November 2 by a score of 12-0. November 16, Homecoming Day, was celebrated with Evanston winning 32-6.

This homecoming game was the last to be played by the following major letter men: Captain Walter Spoor, William Harding, Vincent Lenkhart, Harold Maki, Frank Baron, Robert Peddicord, Clifford Carlson, Gosper Goshgarian, Reino Keinonen, Gilbert Lindgren, Robert Malmberg, Carl Stark and Sam Beaman.

The 1929 football team left no trophies in our hall, but it left the following letter men: Thomas Murphy, William Sorensen, Robert Brown, Charles Hucker, and Karl Daydiff.

Coach Fletcher will mold these men and the remaining candidates from Mr. Grosche's and Mr. Brown's squads into a winning team for 1930.

SECOND HEAVYWEIGHT SQUAD

The old adage "Practice Makes Perfect" might well be applied to the Waukegan second heavyweight gridmen, who came out for the team classified as green material. More than half the turnouts tipped the scales at about 135 pounds, and could easily have met the weight requirements of lightweight football. Although this squad did not enjoy a very successful season, Coach Brown must be given much credit for his untiring efforts in teaching his men the game.

The success of any team should not be measured by games won or lost, and particularly in the second team division. It is what the men actually learn about the game that counts, and with green material to work on, any coach has his hands full trying to teach them the rudiments of the game, let alone turning them into a smooth working machine, capable of winning game after game.

With one exception, all the lettermen will be back next year, and with a little more seasoning, ought to develop into a good team. Fourteen minor letters were awarded this year to the following members of the team: Edward Wilson, Raymond Morstadt, Andrew Nagode, Raymond Sworson, Lovi Berti, Walter Benson, Victor Pelvovic, Lawrence Clemen, Robert Campbell, Harold Beck, Elmer Borgel, Max Goodman, William Singer, and Morris Bown.

At the beginning of the 1929 Soph-Frosh Football season, Coach Grosche was greeted with 46 willing aspirants. There was not much time for practice as the first game was only 2 weeks off.

Waukegan's first opponent was DesPlaines. The two met at Weiss Field and battled for four quarters to and fro, Waukegan stemming valiantly the charges of their aggressors, and the game ended in a deadlock 0-0. The following week Waukegan traveled to Deerfield. Waukegan's defense was impenetrable, and as a result brought home the bacon by a score of 13-0. In their next encounter, Waukegan was badly outweighed, but Waukegan's perfect blocking and end running turned the tables and Waukegan came out at the long end of the score 33-0. Roosevelt, Waukegan's next foe, outweighed our men and after a hard-fought battle, Waukegan had annexed another victory, by a score of 12-2. The next week Libertyville invaded Waukegan territory, and again Waukegan proved to be the better team winning 32-0. The next game was played on a foreign field and after a dead-lock throughout the game, Price, Waukegan end, scored a field goal for the only marker of the game, ending 3-0 in favor of Waukegan. Waukegan added another victory to its string when it defeated the strong Evanston team 13-6. This game marked the end of a perfect season, and every man on the team came in for equal honors.

We may say without exaggeration that the Soph-Frosh team has experienced one of the most successful seasons of many years. Many of this year's players will make good material for Coach Fletcher's heavyweight team of 1930.

FRESHMEN FOOTBALL

Coach Morley's freshman football team enjoyed a very successful grid season playing seven games out of which they won four, tied two, and lost one. With such timber of which to build teams for the next three years, Waukegan is assured of turning out winning teams. Numerals were awarded to the following boys:

Sandelin, Captain; Hand, Selenik, Brewster, Sayre, Stoikoff, Heydecker, Paris, Williams, Anderson, Boyles, Spaulding, Murphy, Clark, Nagode, Palmer, Bacon, Butkus, Palucius, Goldsmith, Brown, Mikranz, Manager.

FRESHMEN BASKETBALL

GOLF

With the coming of Spring, Waukegan Golfers hope to open one of their most successful seasons. Last year they lost but two matches out of nine. One of the regulars of last year, Alex Drinka, won first place in the state. The regulars from last year are, Alex Drinka, Lewis Clarke, Sooren Abrahamian.

HEAVYWEIGHT BASKETBALL

Without doubt, Waukegan has enjoyed one of the most successful seasons in basketball history. Coach Fletcher had taken over the responsibilities of coaching heavyweight basketball, while Mr. Brown coached the lightweights.

When the call for men was issued 30 men reported. After practicing for two weeks, Waukegan met and defeated Libertyville 32-23, on the latter's floor. The following Friday, Waukegan played its first home game, upsetting Calumet 21-5. Waukegan did not have any scheduled games for two weeks giving the boys a rest. On January 7, Libertyville played a return game and Waukegan was again victorious, this time by a score of 16-12. Lindbloom was Waukegan's next victim losing 33-22. Waukegan's brilliant passing and accurate shooting spelled defeat for New Trier, Waukegan hanging up victory No. 5 by a one-sided score of 27-15. Waukegan's next game was played on the opponents' floor, and the low ceiling of Rochelle's gym broke Waukegan's winning streak, Waukegan losing, 21-10.

Waukegan started another winning streak by defeating Kenosha in one of the hardest fought battles of the season 17-14. The following night the Purple and Gold were credited with another win by upsetting Maine, 29-20. Waukegan outfought LaGrange at LaGrange, winning 25-19. LaGrange traveled to Waukegan the succeeding week and was overcome by Waukegan once more, losing 24-9. Waukegan played its best game against Roosevelt, their passing, shooting and guarding almost being perfect, this being the case, Roosevelt bowed to Waukegan, 31-24. New Trier found Waukegan off form and handed them their second defeat of the season, 25-16. Rochelle traveled to Waukegan March 1, and Waukegan proved that the victory chalked up by Rochelle earlier in the season was accidental, Waukegan winning this time, 26-16.

Waukegan's success during the season was due to teamwork rather than individual starrng. With one letterman returning Coach Fletcher built a combination that would work as a team. In every game the scoring honors were evenly distributed.

The following men played their last game for Waukegan: Jack Mugerdtichian, Margo Margoian, Vincent Lenkhart, Sam Bearman, Harold Osterberg and Carl Stark.

WAUKEGAN AT THE TOURNAMENTS

By W. Burke

After concluding one of the most successful seasons in the history of Waukegan high, Coach Fletcher's heavyweights were ready for tournament competition. The team was small and light, but overcame these severe handicaps with speed, teamwork, and sheer playing ability.

Waukegan's first opponent was Arlington Heights, a strong, hard playing quintet, and the boys had to play a real game to win. The score was tied seven all at the end of the first quarter, and only eleven to ten in the Waukeganites' favor at the half. Arlington was hopelessly outclassed in the second half, however, the score at the end of the third quarter being 28-10 in favor of the Fletchermen. The final gun found Waukegan leading 36-21, which entitled them to meet DesPlaines, who had drawn a by.

The Purple warriors displayed splendid form, and kept Maine guessing as to just where the next shot was coming from, in the second day of the tournament. The locals led 13-2 at the quarter, and 19-7 at the end of the first half. The end of the third quarter found DesPlaines lagging 11-25, and they were finally put out of misery by the final gun, Waukegan again being the victor by the one-sided score of 34-16.

Waukegan's next opponent was Barrington, a team which had been going strong, defeating Richmond 26-8, and Lake Zurich 23-6. They were unable to cope with the Fletchermen's dazzling display of speed and shooting accuracy. The score was 12-1 at the ends of the first quarter, and 26-7 at the half, when Coach Fletcher replaced the regulars with his second string men, so as to save them for the evening's game. The locals could not be stopped, and at the end of the third quarter were leading 33-13, finally winding up their scoring spree by winning 45-15, the most one sided victory enjoyed by the Waukeganites all season. Barrington and Palatine played for third place in the first game of the evening session, and Barrington won a well-earned game, 22-19.

Libertyville had trounced Palatine 22-11 in the afternoon game, and thus the stage was set for the final struggle of the tournament, which was to take place between the Wildcats and Waukegan. The Purple cagers had defeated Libertyville in two previous games on the season's schedule, and as the end of the first quarter found the locals leading 12-1, the fans began to think that the game was in the bag. At the half, Waukegan led 17-5, and the mighty throng which packed the gym to capacity showed very plainly that they were bored to distraction. Libertyville crept a little closed in the third quarter, but Waukegan was still leading by a comfortable 19-11 margin, so the rooters saw nothing to worry about.

Then, like a thunderbolt out of the blue, the sleeping Wildcats awoke to fury, and led by the mighty Hornberger-Murphy combination, clawed their way up and down the floor, twice tying the score, and keeping the crowd in a constant uproar with their marvelous display of shooting ability. Waukegan fought like mad, and after missing many heart-breaking shots, finally dropped in a basket and a free throw to win another district tournament trophy to grace the foyer of our gym.

Waukegan was defeated by Waterman in the first game of the sectional tournament at Joliet, losing 25-21 to the team which finally copped the sectional honors. The 1929-30 quintet was a great little team; one whose sheer playing ability, teamwork, and fighting ability will ever be remembered in the history of Waukegan Township High.

A dependable substitute, and a cool-headed floor general.

Bob Price
An inexperienced forward, but a player of promise.

"Sammy" Bearman
A hard-driving forward, and a model of teamwork.

LIGHTWEIGHT BASKETBALL SQUAD

The lightweight basketball team, coached by Mr. Brown, enjoyed a very successful season considering the fact that there were only two players from last year's team returning, namely Sooren Abahamian and Walter Benson. Coach Brown, after weeks of practice composed a team as strong as any other Waukegan Lightweight team ever was.

They started the season out with a bang by trimming Libertyville there, 18-12. Three days later Calumet brought their strong aggregation to Waukegan and turned back the Purple and Gold, 19-8. On January 7, Libertyville travelled to Waukegan and was given another beating, 29-15. Playing one of the strongest lightweight teams from Chicago, Waukegan gave them the biggest scare they had yet encountered, but after the final whistle, Lindbloom was victorious, 18-17. In one of the hardest fought games, Waukegan lost in an overtime period to New Trier, 20-21. The following weekend, Waukegan traveled to Kenosha and again hard luck followed them, losing by a basket, 16-14. Waukegan shook off the jinx and defeated Main, 11-10. This was another thriller for the fans. Smooth passing and accurate shooting enabled Waukegan to upset LaGrange at LaGrange, 19-7. The succeeding week, LaGrange played at Waukegan and tried desperately to defeat Waukegan, but their best efforts went for naught, Waukegan upset LaGrange by winning 22-10. The Purple and Gold warriors made it four in a row by turning back Roosevelt team, 25-22. Waukegan was bent for revenge when they met New Trier and revenge they got, handing New Trier the short end of a 33-19 score. In their last game of the season, Waukegan climaxed a brilliant season by triumphing over Kenosha, 17-13.

Soren Abrahamian, who played his last game for W. T. H. S., was elected captain of the lightweight team. His wonderful floor work and accurate shooting were deciding factors in many of the games.

The team worked as one man and this was one of the reasons why they enjoyed a successful season. Many of this year's lights will go to Coach Fletcher's heavies next year.

SECOND HEAVYWEIGHT BASKETBALL

After Coach Fletcher had picked the men who were to be on the varsity squad, there remained about fifteen men. These were called the second-heavies and played scheduled games. These games were played to give the players experience and to help develop the individual to build up the spirit of teamwork.

The following games were played by the Seconds:

Waukegan	-	-	-	-	-	8	Kenosha	-	-	-	-	-	16
Waukegan	-	-	-	-	-	8	Gurnee	-	-	-	-	-	14
Waukegan	-	-	-	-	-	18	Kenosha	-	-	-	-	-	17

Waukegan	-	-	-	-	-	8	Gurnee	-	-	-	-	-	14

Although the season was not successful in games won or lost, it does not matter much. Coach Fletcher does not judge the success of the season in games won or lost, but in the number of men who go up from the seconds and make next season's varsity team. The following men composed the squad: Cote, Gartley, Larson, Schreyer, Daley, Krepas, Wilson, Stanof, Tabent and Moore.

JUNIOR SWIMMING TEAM

The junior swimming team, composed of Worack, Woertz, Rayunis, Wilmington, Diver, Heydecker, A. Cohen, Kramer, Wendt, Paris and Drobnick, won five out of the eight meets in which they took part. The schools extinguished by the Waukegan juniors were, Kenosha, Deerfield, New Trier, Morton and Maine.

In the first meet with Kenosha, the locals came out on top, 31 to 20, and in the second meet held at Kenosha, bettered their score, submerging Kenosha juniors 46 to 14.

The meets with Deerfield were a repetition of those with Kenosha, the score of the first meet being 29 to 28. In the second meet Waukegan displayed much better form and won 43 to 14.

Our juniors met their masters in the two meets with New Trier, losing the first splashfest 19 to 34 and the second one 26 to 34. New Trier's juniors along with those of Maine are considered the best on the north shore.

Morton was a tough customer for Waukegan, but the pluggers won and Waukegan was again on top 35 to 24. In the Maine meet the juniors met their only other defeat and were washed out 35 to 34 by Maine tidal wave.

Two of the outstanding performers on the team were Worack who could always be depended upon to win first in the diving event, and Woertz who usually showed his toes to his competitors.

SENIOR SWIMMING TEAM

The senior swimming team, composed of Lima, Captain, Wright, Swanson, Hussey, Buzzard, Drew, Milmot, Ranta, Morrison, Lehto, McKenzie and S. Cohen, won five out of the eight dual meets in which they participated.

Deerfield was another of Waukegan's victims, the locals winning the meet in our pool 39,30, and the meet in the Deerfield tank by the same score. New Trier, a much stronger foe, outswam Waukegan in both tanks, submerging them at Waukegan, 45-24, and at New Trier, 39-20. Morton clashed with Waukegan in one meet, and after the waves had settled, the locals were on the large end of a 52-17 score.

The Maine fish handed Waukegan another defeat, 48-20, but the score should not be taken as an indication of inferior ability on the part of Coach Morley's men, as Maine is considered the second strongest team in the country.

In the yearly invitational meet held at the local pool, seven teams participated, namely, Evanston, Kenosha, Maine, New Trier, Oak Park, Waukegan and Deerfield. Working against the classiest competition which the state affords, Waukegan ranked fourth.

Oak Park was first with 23 points, Evanston second, with 21, Kenosha third with 16½, Waukegan fourth with 16, New Trier fifth, with 9, Deerfield sixth with seven, and Maine (second team) seventh with 1.

In the invitational meet held at the University of Chicago, Lima and Hussy both placed, Hussy getting second in the 220, and fourth in the 100 free style, and Lima placed fourth in the 220. In the

I. A. C. invitational meet Lima placed second in the 220, and fourth in the 100, while Hussy placed fourth in the diving. At the Northwestern National Interscholastic Championship meet, Lima placed fourth in the 220.

TRACK

Waukegan's track team, led by Coaches Brown and Felds, has enjoyed a very successful season to date. The local harriers handed Libertyville a defeat in a dual meet, but later lost a similar meet to the strong New Trier team.

At the National Interscholastic meet, held in Patten gym, at Northwestern University, Bob Malmberg, captain of our team, placed first in the low hurdle event, thereby winning for Waukegan its first national championship.

Robert Campbell and Bliss Moore, two veterans from last year's cross country team are jogging the mile and half-mile in fine style. Harold Werho, another veteran, is displaying fine running form, and Harold Osterberg, holder of school record in the javelin throw, is better than ever. Karl Daydiff, holde of the school high-jump record, is still with the team, and with two members of last year's relay team back, with the help of Anderson and Lehtinen, they ought to round into a fast quartet.

The Junior team shows good form, and is in great shape for the dual meets. Setrakian showed wonderful form in his first meet, and holds much promise of developing into a good sprinter and is no slouch when it comes to hopping the hurdles. Worfel, a new man out for the team, is making considerable progress in the 660 yard event, and with many new freshmen coming along, the outlook for a successful season is bright.

Our cross country tracksters enjoyed one of the most successful seasons in school history. Contrasting with the usual method of scoring, in cross country running, the team with the lowest number of points wins the event.

Waukegan took part in four dual meets, and won all of them.

Loyola Academy journeyed to Weiss field, and were handed a 19-39 defeat by the locals. Lane was next taken into camp in a meet held at Lincoln Park, Chicago, the score being Waukegan 22, Lane 33.

As a climax to a successful season, Coach Fields took four men to Iowa, and in competition against 28 schools, and a field of 140 contestants, Waukegan placed 14th. Bob Campbell placed first in all the dual meets, and is deserving of special mention.

The junior team took part in the first meet with LaGrange, and Walter Willington placed first, helping his team to win the event 16-42. At the end of the season, the following four men were awarded major letters: Bliss Moore, Roy Sauve, Bob Campbell and Verne Werho.

BOXING TOURNEY

Boxing tournaments have been held at the Waukegan Township high school for the last seven years. The first one, held in 1924, drew seventy-five men for the eleven weight divisions.

Some of the best known pugilists of former years are Stewart Forsythe for 1924, Thomas Pod'unas for 1925, Nate Gordon for 1928, and George Taylor for 1929.

Don Merriman, a sophomore this year, achieved eternal fame by defeating William "Pinky" Harding. Coach Al Grosche considers this the most outstanding bout ever staged at this high school.

INTRAMURAL

Intramural basketball started the first day after the Christmas vacation. There were a hundred and sixty-eight boys entered, making nine teams in the light-heavyweight division, five in the bantam-weight division, and five in the paper-weight division. Coach Al. Grosche planned the games to be played on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. There were from twelve to eighteen games played weekly, which shows Al. had no easy job of handling the rollicking youngsters, many of whom had never played basketball before and who have under Al's coaching improved greatly in their games and will probably play on the varsity or ponies in the coming years.

In the light heavyweight division, Captain Norman Litz's team, "The Fighting Illini," came through the season without a defeat which was accredited to Norman's great leadership and all around play. Many of the teams had players dropped from the varsity and the ponies which made the intramural teams stronger. The "Trojans," in the bantamweight division won due to the shooting of Ray Kilponen and the passing of Nagode. In the paperweight division the "Army" won.

At the end of the season all star first teams were selected as follows:

Paperweight

RF—Lockwood, Army.
 LF—Petitclair, Army.
 C—Orange, Army.
 RG—Cohn, Army.
 LG—Baikrang, Yale.

Bantamweight

RF—Williams, Oregon.
 LF—Kilponen, Trojans.
 C—J. Nagode, Oregon.
 RG—E. Nagode, Oregon.
 LG—G. Shea, Golden Bears.

Heavyweight

RF—Harding, Illini
 LF—Wyllie, Irish
 C—Manoian, Boilermakers
 RG—Litz, Illini.
 LG—R. Johnson, Boilermakers

BASEBALL

When the baseball candidates for the 1929 team were called, we were practically certain of a successful season. Three veteran infielders, Mannebeck, Levandusky, Luke and Litz, the veteran catcher, Balen and Peddicord reserve outfielders and Vander-muelan and Carlson, pitchers, remained from the great 1928 team. Finding a first baseman proved to be a big problem but finally after the season was one-third over, Kuderko, a converted infielder, won himself a regular position.

Six consecutive victories were then in order, Waukegan numbering among their victims New Trier, Antioch, Deerfield and Bowen (of Chicago). In both the Deerfield and the first Bowen game, Waukegan came from behind to win in the last inning. All of the games were featured by Waukegan's splendid base-running. Four to eight bases a game were "swiped" by the fleet Waukeganites.

Percy Moore brought his great Lane team to Waukegan and the locals bowed before their opponents' superior hitting strength, taking the short end of a 13-6 score. Three more wins were chalked up and the tenth game, Evanston at Evanston, found the entire team off form. Thirteen errors coupled with seven hits gave Evanston a 9-5 victory.

After the comedy of errors at Evanston the team ran rough-shod over Libertyville and then wound up a successful season by defeating New Trier at Winnetka by a 7-0 score. Gil Vandermuelen turned in the first no-hit, no-run game in modern Waukegan history. He struck out 11 men and only 22 men faced him in 7 innings.

The outlook for the 1930 season is but fair, with only three veterans, Carlson, Peddicord and Balen remaining. Practice is held in the old gym since Thanksgiving and when April 11 rolls around Waukegan hopes to have a team on the field which will match the record of the past nines. The men who have been working out regularly are as follows: Pitchers: Bown, Schroeder, Carlson and Bartz. Stanzak, Geske, Swasas and Hrupsa compose the catching staff. Mix, Kuczewski, Keeley, Drobnic, Pacziewitz, Gehrls, Cosover, Edwards, Boller are out for the infield position, while Peddicord, Balen and Baron are out for the daisy patches.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

This year as before, the athletic association has occupied a prominent position among the organizations of the W. T. H. S.

The membership in the athletic association is open to all pupils and teachers who purchase a season ticket at the beginning of each sport season.

The athletic executive committee is composed of elected pupils and the faculty advisor. This committee meets every other Tuesday to discuss plans for the advancement of athletics activities in the school.

During the past year the athletic association has only sponsored one dance after the basketball games, the association having decided to let the other organizations hold dances after the basketball games.

This year the association has passed another worth while year, a year which may be recognized as a very successful period of work well done.

Robert Malmberg—President
 Carl Daydif—Vice-President
 Carmen Hess—Secretary
 Mr. Jickling—Treasurer.

TENNIS

The varsity tennis team, under the direction of R. S. John, had a very successful season last year, winning seven out of the eight matches played.

Matches were played with Kenosha, Deerfield, Elgin, Aurora, Joliet and Lindblom. Four members of the team made the trip to Urbana for the State Championship. Captain Blanchard qualified for the semi-finals, but as it rained the matches were called off. Blanchard also entered the meet that was held the last part of May at the University of Chicago, but was eliminated in the third round.

The prospects for this year are very bright. Although there is only one letterman, Don Emmons, and three of last year's squad, Margoian, Whyte and Kottcamp, left there is some very promising material in the twenty-odd men for the squad. Matches have been scheduled with some of the stiffest competition in this part of the state.

"Play Day," sponsored by the Illinois League of High School Girls' athletic associations, is a new event started last spring. All high schools in this part of the state, belonging to the state league, set aside a day when a number of representatives from each school meet for a day of play. There is no competition among the schools but the teams are made up of at least one girl from each school. At the end of the day during the social hour the team which has won the most events is announced and each member of the team is usually presented with a ribbon or chevron.

The first play day was held at Oak Park, Illinois, Saturday, May 18. The girls who represented Waukegan and the sports in which they participated were: Helen Pollary, Beeda Littunen, Ruth Ohlin and Jane Jenkinson for tennis; Martha Dickshot, Karna Jokinen, Katie Wangman, and Aldona Hentz for baseball; Regina Gildea, Mercedes Dailey, Virginia Dennis and Zella Dickenson for swimming; Beatrice Hatton, Lillian Jacobson, Rose Slavin and Gerda Christoffersen for volley ball; R. Gildea, M. Dailey, B. Hatton, and R. Slavin also played in the horse-shoe pitching contest while V. Dennis, Z. Dickenson, L. Jacobson, and G. Christoffersen took part in the archery contest.

The second "Play Day" was held this fall at Maywood, Illinois, November 2. Those entered from Waukegan were: Emily Anderfuren and Walma Kupias, who took part in soccer and horseshoe pitching; Ann Lindross in volley ball and archery; Jane Jenkinson, hockey and archery; Genevieve Hewitt, swimming and volley ball, and Alice Spoor, swimming and soccer.

Waukegan hopes to entertain the State League girls at a play day here in the near future.

GIRLS' ATHLETICS

Many freshman girls were introduced to the new novelty of riding in our school bus out Washington street to "W" field where they were instructed in the sport of soccer by our new coach, Miss M. Heimlicher, every Tuesday last fall.

On Thursdays the more experienced sophomores, juniors and seniors could be seen losing their dignity as they accidentally fell on the none too soft ground.

As a fitting close to the basketball season the Waukegan girls placed first in the northern district of the annual telegraphic basket shooting contest sponsored by the Illinois State League of High School Girls' Athletic Associations. The percentage scored by our girls was 33.44.

Varsity team: C. F. Jane Jenkinson, Jr.-Sr.; R. I. Martha Blohm, Fr.; R. O. Walma Kupias, Jr.Sr.; L. O. Irene Rose, Soph.; C. H. Gerda Christoffersen, Soph.; R. H. Alice Anderfuren, Fr.; L. H. Eunice Gibbons, Fr.; R. F. Rose Bogue, Fr.; L. F. Martha Dichshot, Soph., Goal, Aldona Hentz, J.-Sr.

Volley ball took the place of a rest between the soccer and basketball seasons.

Five teams took part in the tournament which started December 12.

The sophomore team annexed the championship without a single loss. The junior-senior team was second with three out of four games won. Competition for third place was close and resulted in a tie for the freshman A, freshman red and freshman green teams.

Several freshman girls helped to round out the junior-senior team as these upper-classmen seem to be too busy with other affairs to give much time to athletics.

The following girls captained their teams through the season: Jr.Sr., Aldona Hentz; Sop., Esther Lindross; Fresh., A. Katherine Gralund; Fresh. Red, Eunice Gibbons; Fresh. Green, Angela Merzlicker.

Four teams, junior-senior, sophomore, freshman red and freshman green were chosen at the end of eight weeks of practice.

At the end of some hard games, in which the first aid box made it appear several times, the junior-senior combine finally kicked their way to victory. Teams and their Captains Won Lost Tied
Junior-senior, Jane Jenkinson 2 0 1
Sophomores, Karna Jokinen 1 2 0
Freshman red, Eunice Gibbons 0 1 1

At the end of the soccer season, Miss M. Heimlicher, the girls' coach, chose a varsity team, composed of the players on each team which had been of the greatest value to their teams during the season. The team was purely honorary and a recognition of the good work and sportsmanship shown during the season.

Basketball, one of the most popular sports among our girls, brought out its usually large number of candidates when the first practice was held immediately after the Christmas holidays. Much hard practising was done for the tournament which promised to be very interesting.

Competition between the junior A and the junior B teams was close from the very beginning. The junior B's, however, were conquered by the junior A's in a hard fought battle. Both teams had developed some good passing but the junior A's had acquired some better team work.

The seniors, because of lack of players, were not able to tie for the championship as the senior teams of the last two years have done.

Perhaps because of less experience the freshmen and sophomores took fourth and fifth place respectively.

The following girls composed the teams:

Seniors: A. Hentz, f., captain; E. Osterberg, f; V. Millerjc; L. Hylberg sc; W. Kupias g; M. Cobb, g.

Junior A: H. Seppala, f; E. Anderfure, f; B. Matsick, c; Rose Slavin sc; A. Lumsden, g; J. Jenkinson, g, captain; F. Mesec, g.

Junior B: M. Dickshot, f., captain; K. Jokinen, f; S. Paul, c; E. Makela, g; G. Christoffersen g.

Sophomore: E. Kahila, f, captain; I. Goshgarian, f; H. Gould, c; A. Howes, g; R. Knapp, g.

Freshman: A. Anderfuren, f; B. Merriman, f; M. Blohm, c, captain; B. Whan, g; V. Dart, g; M. Smith, g.

GIRLS' SWIMMING

In the fall of '29, a call was made for girls who wished to come out for swimming team work. Many girls responded. Technique of strokes, form, and speed swimming, and the finer points of a good dive were taught.

During the first part of the second semester, an announcement was made for all girls interested in life saving to try for a Red Cross award. About fifty girls, advanced in the art of swimming, signed up and practice on every Monday and Wednesday continued until spring was well on its way. Some of the members fell by the wayside, as far as attending practices was concerned, but thirty hard working girls carried through to the taking of the Red Cross junior and senior lifesaving tests.

Early in May, the Girls' Athletic Association sponsored a water pageant, entitled the "Conch Shell," directed by Miss J. H. Wells, instructor of girls' swimming. The synopsis of the play is as follows: A fisher boy listens to the Conch Shell tale of the depths of the ocean, and is lured away to the sea kingdom. He wins the love of Aphrodite, and to win the approval of her father, Neptune, he must prove that he is master of the waters. The theme was carried out with a display of various swimming activities. The mermaids worked out many beautiful floating formations, while the mermen excelled in water stunts. The imp of the play kept the crowd both in laughter and awe at the daring of his antics.

The sea princess, Aphrodite, was charming, being a beautiful dancer and swimmer. The fisher boy, being enamoured by her charms, pursued her and won her love, only to be banished from the kingdom by the angry king because he was a mortal. Due to the pleading of the princess and her subjects, Neptune finally allowed the fisher boy an opportunity to show his mastery of the water. The boy's skill was so great that Neptune accepted him into the kingdom and presented him with the Conch Shell.

The pageant, which ended the whirl of activities for girl swimmers, was climaxed with the traditional lighted candle "W" formation.

MILITARY

As the Junior Unit of the Reserve Officers' Training corps entered its tenth year at Waukegan Township high school, Captain W. F. Magill, Jr., Infantry, was detailed by the government to act as Professor of Military Science and Tactics, replacing Captain P. J. Lloyd.

In 1929, for the fifth consecutive year, the cadet corps was placed on the list of honor high schools by the War department, leading all of the high schools in Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin in proficiency.

The policies of Captain Lloyd were continued during the present year and the Military Department continued as its objective the building of character. Through drills and calisthenics the qualities of alertness, self-confidence and leadership were developed. Cadet officers and non-commissioned officers were assigned instructional duties and showed marked ability in these tasks. Courtesy and neatness in personal appearance were stressed not only in the military classes, but at all times. During the year the local unit attained the highest enrollment in its history, with four hundred and seventy boys engaged in training. These boys were assigned to six companies, forming a regiment of two battalions. Prior to the Christmas vacation the promotions in the regiment were announced, Russell Whyte being named as Cadet Lieutenant Colonel for the year. John Sonn and Marlin Buzzard were designated as Cadet Majors. Donald Gumz became the Regimental Adjutant, with the rank of Captain. There was a departure in the military program, when the mid-year sophomores were enrolled. As the majority of these boys were assigned to Company A, a distinctive uniform was designated, by issuing overseas caps.

The first public appearance of the unit during the year was on the occasion of the dedication of the new Edison Court Post-Office. A selected company, under command of Captain John Sonn, participated in the parade and ceremony and assisted in the flag raising. On Sunday evening prior to Armistic Day the whole cadet corps, in uniform, attended the joint services sponsored by the American Legion. An Armistice Day program was arranged on November 11th, to which the public was invited. The exercises were conducted at the flag pole in front of the senior building.

This year also saw the return of the Military Ball, one of the major social functions on the school calendar.

In order to create more interest in water polo, Mr. Morley arranged a tournament among the various companies in the cadet corps.

RIFLE TEAM

The rifle team, under the coaching of Sergeant Holly, had another excellent year in 1929. In their first major match, the Sixth Corps Area Intercollegiate Matches, the local team fired against high school teams from three states, winning the match. The score made by the local boys was higher than most of the college teams in the senior matches. On this team fifteen boys fired, the scores of the high ten making the team total. From this group two teams of five boys each were selected to fire in the matches sponsored annually by William Randolph Hearst.

In the Mid-West section the first team, representing Waukegan won first place in the high school division with a score of 921. For this match Mr. Hearst presented the school with a beautiful trophy in the form of a silver shield. Only one other team in the United States fired a higher score in the national junior championships.

During the present year a new target range has been constructed in the old gymnasium. As all of the first team of last year were lost by graduation, the new team, under Captain Clarence Russell, team captain, are training to bring new honors to the school. Throughout the schools in the United States Waukegan is known for the records of the past rifle team and the boys are working to sustain this

The 1930 team fired two shoulder-to-shoulder matches with the Joliet High School team, winning both matches. At Waukegan the score was: Waukegan, 834; Joliet, 768.

At Joliet Waukegan scored 863 to Joliet's 764. The newly formed rifle club of the Deerfield High School also visited the local range for an informal match.

Captain Clarence Russell, Benson McNamara, Charles Shelby, John Sonn, George McClure, Harry Stiles, Robert Johnson, William Ferry, Andrew Stenros and Clarence Hecketsweiler made up the two teams firing in the Hearst Matches.

The custom of maintaining a firing squad for the local American Legion Post was continued throughout the year. Ten boys were ready at all times for calls from the Legion to assist in military ceremonies.

In room 210 Miss Weiss is queen
With a laced trimmed hanky in her hand;
Her rule o'er French is surely keen,
And oft times makes our brain expand.

In English class before Miss Warren
The glumest group of studes is seen.
Why? Because "Of all sad words of tongue or pen
The saddest are these," . . . "Now
write a theme."

At jawing, Mr. John is a wow
And calling us dumb-bells and such;
But does he know Physics? And how!
Yet, do we like him? Sure! Much!

Popular Song Hits

Spos'in':—
Vincent Lenkhart should comb his hair;
Miss Allen should let the students
cut up in study hall;
Sam Burgess should behave himself;
Margaret Guerin should get to class
on time;
Miss Oliver should wear low heels;
Mr. Fields, himself, should take roll
in 8th period assembly;
Bruce Wight should forget that he is Scotch;
Esther Ball should know the page
her lesson is on;
Edna Chapman should grow up;
Somebody should call the Ford girls
by their right names;
Harriet Lundy should cut her hair;
Don Emmons should fall in love
Virginia McLean forgot to forget something.

Miss Thompson's our librarian—
She's always there, you know;
She scares the Freshmen half to death
When off with books they go.

When Mr. Baker comes to class,
His pupils shake with fear;
For oft or not he says real mad,
"What, no work done here?"

Miss Letts has Biology,
She's very good and kind;
But if she had her awful way,
We'd do nothing else but grind.

How Would They Look?

Mr. Pritchard—walking slowly?
Mr. Baker—looking pleasant?
Bill Moore—awake in history.

FAITH in WAUKEGAN

As the only large industrial-commercial-residential district on the North Shore, the Waukegan-North Chicago district has a future that should make it the second greatest population center in Illinois. Strategic location and rising land values should result in substantial future profits to owners of wisely selected real estate in the Greater Waukegan area.

Owing to the recent fluctuation in other securities, the public is awakening to an appreciation of the basic soundness of real estate. Add at least one more piece of real property to your investments. We have a plan that makes it easy for you to acquire property in the Waukegan area at small down payments and easy terms.

Between a lady fair and me
A powder compact is—
A not-so-little rounded box
From which she decks her phizz.
I grant is a useful thing,
What makes the lady weep
Is that I stonily refuse
The compact long to keep.

Our compact of eternal love
I'll gladly keep for aye,
But she must keep the powder pact,
Or I'll no longer stay,
For when together we step out,
My purpose I divulge,
Which is, I'll bear no powder box
It makes my pockets bulge.

Forty Years of Continuous Service

It was a cold gray dawn of the morning after. With a parched throat and a mouth that tasted like the feeling of a semester exam, he was heard to remark, while sitting on the edge of the bed holding his throbbing head, "Just as my head was feeling a little better you might know that d—— cat would come stamping across the floor."

Ellen: "Name a heart disease, Elizabeth."

Elizabeth: "Heartbroken."

THE MARK OF A MODERN WASHROOM

is SANI - DRI, the modern, efficient, and dependable apparatus for drying hands and face by means of electrically warmed air.

The advantage of drying hands and face by Nature's own method - evaporation - are appreciated by every user. The effect on the skin is so beneficial, leaving it soft, smooth, and chap - free.

Washrooms where SANI - DRI is installed are always neat and clean - no more towels strewn around - no more empty towel cabinets at inconvenient times. And the cost is so much less than towels.

Pat and Mike were painting a building. Pat said, "Gee, it's hot up here. I guess I'll take a dive." He dived to the street head first. Mike says, "How's the water, Pat. Pat answers, in a dazed way, "Don't dive down here, I struck a sand bar.

Little John was interested in the rafters on the porch.

"What are these, daddy?" he asked.

"Those are knot-holes, son," answered dad.

"Well, if they are not holes what are they?"

Sam B.: "Whats' the difference between a vision and a sight?"

John K.: "Well, you can flatter a girl by calling her a vision, but never call her a sight."

A little boy to his brother: "Where are you going?"

Brother: "I'm going swimming."

Boy: "If you drown, you'll get a good beating when you get home."

WAUKEGAN ACHIEVEMENT

The passing years in Waukegan history have seen many great achievements of loyal men and women. Taking its place among them is the W of the class of 1930. It stands as a fitting tribute to the ingenuity and industry of those who built it.

Staff members will experience a great deal of satisfaction and pride in such successful culmination of their work. The Manz Corporation shares in this pride, as it has been our privilege to make the engravings for the W.

For sixty years Manz has developed—until today it is the largest complete printing establishment of its kind in the country. Here everything required for the complete printed job—from Idea to Finished Product—is produced under one roof.

For years we have been co-operating with student staffs and faculty advisors in the preparation of year books. They have found it profits them to take advantage of Manz creative service in the initial stages of the work.
